In 2025, two reviews and 14 papers were published in the Journal of the Institute of Brewing. Front and centre of the process is peer review (see <https://jib.cibd.org.uk/index.php/jib/article/view/86> for where 'review' fits in the end to end process). This is the key process in scientific publication. The review process inevitably takes a lot of time but, without doubt, results in significantly better manuscripts for the benefit of the authors, the Journal and its readers.

Accordingly, I would like to fulsomely thank the 26 busy reviewers who freely gave their time and expertise to review manuscripts for the Journal. Many will have reviewed the manuscript on submission and after revision. Further, six reviewers were kind enough to review two manuscripts with one reviewing three and another contributing a magnificent four reviews!

Getting reviewers 'on board' remains challenging with 46 folk declining or ignoring the invitation to review. There are, of course, more and more 'headwinds' for (potential) reviewers to handle.

Cheers and big thanks,

David
